DALLAS – September 29, 2010 – Sheraton Dallas Hotel, announced today that it was recently named number four in the large size businesses category in the Dallas Business Journal’s ranking of the “Best Places to Work” in Dallas-Fort Worth. This is the second consecutive year the Sheraton Dallas has been named in the top five by the Dallas Business Journal’s prestigious survey, in 2009 they were listed as number one.

“It’s truly a compliment to have Sheraton Dallas recognized for the second year as one of the best places to work in the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex,” said Ray Hammer, general manager of the Sheraton Dallas Hotel. “Sheraton Dallas strives to create a great work environment because we know it is the right thing to do for our employees. This wonderful recognition reinforces our belief that we must be doing something right on behalf of our employees and our guests.”

The Dallas Business Journal’s “Best Places to Work” survey, handled by Kansas-based Quantum Market Research (QMR), an independent human resources company, questioned employees of participating companies about specific work place issues. The top-scoring companies in three categories made up the 2009 list of “Best Places to Work” in Dallas-Fort Worth. The categories included: small businesses (1-100 employees), mid-sized businesses (101-500 employees), large businesses (more than 500 employees). Only companies whose number of responses met QMR’s specifications to guarantee a 95 percent confidence level, with a margin of error of plus/minus five percent, were included in the final rankings.
